Major & Developing Industry Clusters

The Jefferson EDGE 2020 is the long-term economic development strategic plan to promote sustainability, job growth and investment in Jefferson Parish. Over the course of its 15-year history, The EDGE has served as a road map for our community’s development. Through the proactive efforts of our stakeholders, JEDCO and elected officials, The EDGE has delivered game-changing initiatives such as the development of the 500-acre Churchill Technology & Business Park and quality of life improvements related to the beautification of major corridors, education and Fat City redevelopment.

In 2015, the Jefferson EDGE underwent its last 5-year update. The industry clusters identified below were selected through the planning process with JEDCO board and parish stakeholders as the greatest opportunity for growth in strategic areas of interest and strength in coordination with regional efforts. While a cluster based approach targets needs of those industries, it does not exclude any industries or businesses from JEDCO’s overall support services, but provides a basis for targeting limited resources for maximizing long term impact.

Food, Beverage, Fishing and Seafood

Louisiana, and especially the New Orleans region, is known for its delicious and unique cuisine and food products. Jefferson Parish’s business case for this cluster is strong: utilities and water are less expensive, the food industry of region has a rich tradition and history, and the parish has a wide variety of distribution options. Jefferson also has a tremendous proximity to supply chains, from goods moving in and out of the Port of New Orleans to agricultural products grown in parishes further west, like rice, sugarcane, bananas, sweet potatoes, and more. Companies within this cluster in Kenner include Revolution Foods, Orleans Coffee Exchange, MMI Culinary, and Harlon’s LA Fish.

Water Transportation, Distribution and Logistics

The water transportation industry cluster is a foundational industry base in Jefferson Parish and the region. Jefferson Parish’s hard assets, including the Harvey Canal, interstate highways, Mississippi River, multiple Class 1 railroads, and Louis Armstrong International Airport, combine for a multi-modal location unrivaled in the Gulf South. In particular, water transportation—both the transporting of goods on water as well as the building and maintenance of water-based vessels—is a highly specialized traded industry cluster with high average wages.

Health Care

The health services cluster is the largest employer in Jefferson Parish. The industry is facing major shifts in the parish—with private operators leasing parish hospitals, funding changes from the Affordable Care Act, and the growth of private systems like Ochsner and LCMC, Jefferson’s medical landscape is radically different than it was just a few years ago. Additionally, the opening of two new medical centers in downtown New Orleans will add hundreds of beds to the regional capacity. These changes mean that the parish must address workforce development, regionally integrated marketing, and supporting destination health care to support continued growth in Jefferson Parish.
This cluster includes businesses that develop, sell, or train on software and other information technology products. This cluster, while a targeted industry in many regions across the country, has several strong and growing firms in Jefferson Parish, like Geocent, 365 Connect, Entronix, and ReadSoft. Information technology and information systems are a part of every industry and business around the globe; there is not just one kind of IT company. Thus, part of this targeted strategy is to determine what types of IT hold the most promise for Jefferson’s future. Jefferson’s largest employers are in engineering, health care, construction, water transportation, and other industries with significant IT needs. By tying the EDGE plan’s targeted clusters together with information technology, the IT industry can be the connective tissue that helps all Jefferson businesses prosper.

This industry has been the result of tremendous regional planning and development activity that came out of a realization post-Katrina that Louisiana can and must be a leader in water management and coastal restoration. These coordinated efforts between government, industry, and philanthropic leaders has resulted in two landmark plans that position billions of dollars of projects and investments to rebuild the coast and help our cities live with water: the state’s Coastal Master Plan and the Greater New Orleans Urban Water Plan. Now, with the prospect of funding from the RESTORE Act and the settlement with BP after the 2010 oil spill, this industry is ready to grow locally, and for the best reason—rebuilding the coastal defenses that protect our region and make it more resilient.
